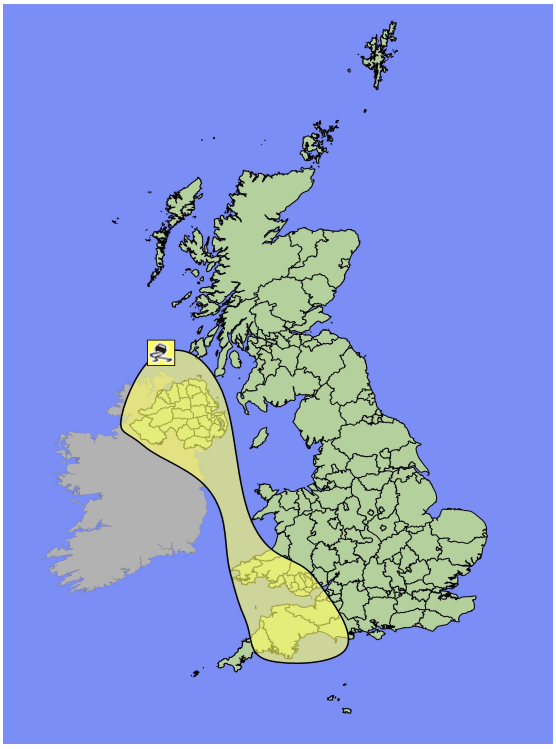
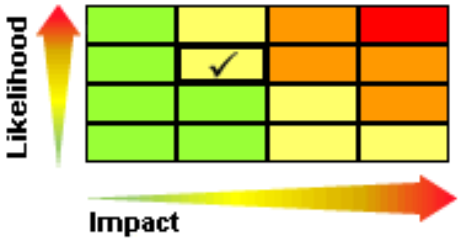
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Frontal cloud and increasingly sporadic outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow will only gradually ease away westwards overnight leaving some surfaces wet and prone to freezing. There is also a risk of further light sleet and snow showers moving into SW England from the English Channel later in the night.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 17:00 on Mon, 30th Jan 2012 until 11:00 on Tue, 31st Jan 2012

Slow clearance of rain, sleet and snow will leave surfaces wet and prone to freezing overnight, increasing the risk of icy patches, especially on untreated surfaces.
The public are advised to be aware of the need for extra care, especially when travelling.
